

The idea behind tapas is that each person orders what they like & then shares with their friends.

As tapas is usually served in small portions, we recommend ordering three tapas per person.

So everyone can enjoy everything!

A Taste of Spain

AUTHENTIC TAPAS NOW AVAILABLE IN BAWTRY!

What are Tapas?

Tapas are a variety of small savoury Spanish dishes, often served as a snack with drinks, or with other tapas as a meal.

To 'tapear' - going from bar to bar for drinks and tapas - is an essential part of the social culture of Spain, especially in the south, and is something that every visitor to Spain should experience.

Because tapas are informal, and the bars are often busy, they are commonly eaten standing up at the bar or at small tables or even upturned barrels, and the atmosphere is convivial and noisy. In Spain you will even see many tapas bars hanging traditional cured hams from the rafters.

History of Tapas

Legend has it that because of illness the thirteenth century Castilian king Alfonso X (the Wise) had to eat small snacks with his wine between meals to maintain his strength, and after recovering passed a law that wine or beer served in taverns had to be accompanied by food.

More possible origins were practical, with bread or a small plate of ham or olives being used to keep dust or insects out of the drink (the literal meaning of 'tapa' is lid).

It was also the custom for agricultural and other manual workers to eat small snacks so that they could continue working until the main meal of the day.

Although tapas in their present form can be found throughout Spain, it is generally accepted to have begun in the taverns and bars of Sevilla and Andalucía.

Ingredients

As with the Spanish diet in general, tapas are made from traditionally Mediterranean ingredients, especially olive oil, garlic, fish and seafood, and free range pork.

There are a number of theories regarding the origin of the custom of eating small snacks with drinks.

Paella is rare in Sevilla, though many bars there do a lunchtime 'arroz del día' or rice of the day, and potato omelette (tortilla) are also common.

There is a huge variety of fish and seafood on offer, from salt cod (bacalao) and tuna to calamares (squid) and prawns.

Although beef and lamb are also popular, the most common meat is pork, much of which comes from free range pata negra pigs, used for jamón Ibérico.

You will find that modern tapas have changed quite a lot over the years - at El Toro our tapas are cooked fresh to order and are delicious!

Every part of the animal is used, including cheeks, trotters, tripe and blood.

There is also a wide selection of cheeses, such as the well-known Manchego, and it is usually made from sheep and goat's milk, or a blend of the two. Salads are usually simple dishes of lettuce, tomato and onion and are not often found in small tapa sizes.

How to Order

The first thing to do is check whether you can order

tapas at the tables. In some places they only serve tapas at the bar and you have to order raciones (large plates) at tables or out on the terrace.

Once seated, don't order everything at once. Many tapas are already prepared and you could end up with 5-6 dishes arriving at once. Also, you may see something walk by that looks good, so best to start with just one or two tapas each and take it from there.

The barman will usually run a tab for you, which is paid after you have finished eating.
